Zavala County Sentinel

Serving Crystal City - La Pryor - Batesville - Carrizo Springs - Uvalde Since 1911

Vol. 107, No. 51 Crystal City, Texas 78839 WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 19, 2018 USPS No. 781-100 .75 Cents

In the past the Sentinel has printed a fractured English and Spanish version of "A visit from St. Nicholas" which was composed by Samuel Saenz and Mercedes Olvera of Dallas. Every year it brings a chuckle or two, even to those who would normally disapprove of mangling the two languages in such a manner. So put everyone in the Christmas spirit by gathering your family around and reading it out loud.

*"Twas the night before Christmas when all through the casa, not a creature was stirring, I wondered, "Que pasa?"
My brother and I went to sleep in our camas
Some in long underwear, some in piyamas.
When out in the yard there arose such a grito
I ran to the window and looked down afuera
And who in the world do you think quien era?
St. Nick in a sleigh and a big sombrero came dashing along like a little bombero.
And pulling his sleigh instead of venados, were eight little burros approaching volados.
I watched as they came, and the fat little hombre was shouting and whistling, and calling by nombre:
'Ay Pancho, ay Pepe, ay Cuca, ay Beto!
'Ay Chato, ay Chopo, Maruca y Neto!
Then standing erect, with his hands on his pecho,
he flew to the top of our very own techo.
With his round little belly like a bowl of jalea,
He struggled to squeeze down our old chimenea.
Then huffing and puffing, and a little cansado,
He picked up a bag that looked muy pesado,
He filled all the stockings with lovely regalos, for none of the niños had been very malos.
Then chuckling aloud, seeming very contento,
He turned like a flash and was gone like the viento.
And I heard him exclaim and this is verdad,
"Merry Christmas a todos. . .Feliz Navidad!"*

“SOFT AND CRUMBLY.” “LIKE COTTAGE CHEESE.”
“LIKE A SPONGE.” “LOOSE AND FULL OF HOLES.”

Those and other common descriptions of what healthy soil looks and feels like refer to good soil structure.

Soil structure, the arrangement of the solid parts of the soil and the pore space between them, is critical to how the soil functions. When the solid parts—sand, silt and clay particles—cling together as coarse, granular aggregates, the soil has a good balance of solid parts and pore space.

Highly aggregated soils—those granular, durable, distinct aggregates in the topsoil that leave large pore spaces between them—are soils with good tilth and good structure.

Well-structured soils have both macropores (large soil pores generally greater than 0.08 mm in diameter) and micropores (small soil pores with diameters less than 0.08 mm that are usually found within structural aggregates).

An interconnected network of pores associated with loosely packed, crumbly, highly aggregated soils allows rapid infiltration and easy movement of both water and air through the soil and provides habitat for soil organisms.

Chemical and physical factors play a prominent role in small aggregate formation in clay soils, while biological processes drive development of large aggregates and macropores. Earthworms, for instance, produce both new aggregates and pores. Their binding agents are responsible for the formation of water-stable, macro-aggregates, and their burrowing creates continuous pores linking surface to subsurface soil layers. As they feed, earthworms also speed plant residue decomposition, nutrient cycling, and redistribution of nutrients in the soil profile.

Soil organic matter also helps develop stable soil aggregates. Soil microorganisms that are fed with organic matter secrete a gooey substance called glomalin, an effective short-term cementing agent for large aggregates. Gooey glues are produced by fungi and bacteria as they decompose plant residues. Water-resistant substances produced by microorganisms, roots, and other organic matter, provide long-term aggregate stability from a few months to a few years.

TILAGE DESTROYS STRUCTURE

Management practices that reduce soil cover, disrupt continuous pore space, compact soil, or reduce soil organic matter, negatively impact soil structure. Since tillage negatively affects all of these properties, it's high on the list of practices damaging to healthy soils.

When tillage loosens the soil, it leaves soil particles exposed to the forces of wind and water. Transported by wind and water, detached soil particles settle into pores, causing surface sealing, compaction and reduced infiltration. When this happens less water is available to plants and runoff and erosion increases.

By contrast, soils that are not tilled and are covered with diverse, high residue crops throughout the year have better soil structure, are highly aggregated, with high levels of organic matter and microorganism activity, high water holding capacity, high infiltration rates, and little compaction.

Give it the Slake Test!

Does your soil have good structure? Give it the slake test! Ray Archuleta, an agronomist with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service with a passion for soil health, has done the test scores of times. Anyone can do it, he says, and he predicts it will open your eyes.

“What happens with poor soil structure is that the pores collapse in water and the soil breaks apart,” Archuleta says. “Soil with good structure—the untilled soil—can still be intact for the most part even 24 hours later. The reason for the difference is soil structure. Biological cementing, the work of soil microbes, glues the aggregates of the untilled soils together.”

In a similar test, an infiltration or rainfall simulation test, Archuleta puts the two soil samples in wire mesh inserted into empty jars, then simulates rainfall onto them.

“When you put a tilled soil and an un-tilled soil in yarn jars and simulate rainfall onto them, you quickly see the untilled soil allows the water to infiltrate the whole profile. On the other hand, water stays on top of the tilled soil much longer,” Archuleta says.

“I think these tests are powerful visual tools to help explain and help people remember how soils function” Archuleta continues. “I used to think if I tilled the soil—fluffed it up—it would allow more water in. But that’s just not true. Tilling soil closes pore space and keeps rainfall from infiltrating. You’ve got to have pore space in your soil from top to bottom.”

“The tests tell me in our watersheds we have an infiltration problem, not a runoff problem,” he concludes. “What I mean is, if we focus on building healthy soils that result in more infiltration, we’ll do what we need to do to eliminate much of the runoff.”

How to do the Slake Test

The slake test compares two chunks of topsoil in water to see how well and how long they will hold together. Here are the steps:

1. Collect a chunk of topsoil—a size that would fit in your hand—from an area where you don't till, like a fencerow, or a field you've no-tilled or had in grass for many years.
2. Get a second spade-full or chunk of soil from a field you've tilled consistently. It should be the same soil type as the first sample.
3. Find two glass jars, yarn jars or some kind of clear glass jars large enough to hold the chunks of soil.
4. Put together some type of wire mesh that you can hook at the top of each jar that will allow the soil to be submerged in the water, yet be held within the top half of the jar.
5. Insert the wire meshes into each jar.
6. Fill the jars with water.
7. At the same time, submerge the tilled sample in one jar, and the untilled sample in the other.
8. Watch to see which soil holds together and which one falls apart. The soil with poor structure is the one that will begin to fall apart.

If you want to see “Ray the Soil Guy” demonstrate the test or the infiltration test, check out our online resources.

Si, Si Hay Santa Claus

Niños no dejen que les cambien su creencia, si, si hay Santa Claus aunque no lo veas.

Dios todo poderoso existe y quien lo ha visto? Dejar los niños venir a Cristo si, si hay Santa Claus cuando hay AMOR.

Lo mas importante es el symbulo que ofrece Santa Claus; niños sean obedientes, estudien, sean buenos hijos.

A veces aunque no veamos las personas sentimos su presencia. Santa Claus siempre vivira donde se encuentren niños.

Pos si o por no; don't be naughty, be nice! No seas picaro, ser atento! 7/29/2018

Razon Para Estar Estancia

El nacimiento de niño Jesus el regalo mas adorable de parte del Dios todopoderoso.

Hoy en dia usamos la estancia Navideña para fiestas, bebidas y comprar nos lo que queremos.

Muchos establecimientos ya no pone el Nacimiento por razones politicas o porque los incredulos los atacan.

Sabes que en algunas escuelas no pueden cantar cantos religiosos ni Noche de Paz tampoco adornos considerados religiosos.

Gracias a Dios que en nuestro hogares-Si podemos y debemos poner el nacimiento como decor cantar himnos, alegrar y alabar el mero motivo de la Navidad.

El nacimiento de niños Jesus que nacio, crecio y murio por ti y por mi.

Gloria a Dios en las Alturas paz y buena voluntad para todos. 7/7/2018

Springs of "Living Water"

PEACE ON EARTH

The message given by angels to shepherds in the fields of Bethlehem on the night Mary gave birth to the Son of God is unforgettable. Many poets, writers and songwriters have focused on the impact of these words : PEACE ON EARTH.

This expression reflects one of the divine attributes of God. His very divine nature is surrounded by "clouds of peace". Jesus is also identified in Holy Scriptures as the Prince of Peace. His works in the lives of all also reveal an atmosphere of serenity and calm.

For a moment consider – what is PEACE? For some it is the absence of confusion. Others may call peace – an agreement between 2 parties. Yet, Peace is more than just a word. PEACE is a state of mind and soul where rest or meditation are rewarded. PEACE is an awareness of divine presence and power.

Our world uses the word PEACE but we see too much anger, hatred, bitterness and anguish. PEACE has become an illusion instead of a personal reality. I pray that this Christmas we will all come to JESUS and KNOW the true meaning of PEACE.

PAZ EN LA TIERRA

El mensaje dado por ángeles a pastores en los campos de Belén la noche que María dió luz al Hijo de Dios es un mensaje inolvidable. Muchos poetas, escritores e himnólogos se han enfocado en el impacto de estas palabras : PAZ EN LA TIERRA.

Esta expresión refleja uno de los atributos de Dios. Su misma naturaleza divina es rodeada por "nubes de paz." Jesus también fue identificado en las Sagradas Escrituras

Thank you

The benefit plate sale held for Emma Martinez was a success. First of all we would like to thank our dear merciful and grateful Lord the guidance and help he granted us in conducting the plate sale. Funds raised were used to help with medical expenses and for gas to travel to and from Laredo for treatments for our dear Emma Martinez.

May God bless all the people that bought tickets, that helped sell tickets, donated money, those who cooked food and helped serve. May God bless each and everyone for their generosity.

como el Príncipe de Paz. Sus obras en las vidas de todos también nos revelan un ambiente de serenidad y calma. Por un momento considere – que es PAZ? Para algunos es la ausencia de confusion. Otros llaman paz – un acuerdo entre 2 partidos. PAZ es más que una palabra. PAZ es un estado de mente y alma lejos de confusion donde descanso o meditación son apremiados. PEACE es el estar consciente de la presencia de Dios y Su poder.

Nuestro mundo usa la palabra PAZ pero vemos mucho enojo, odio, amargura y angustia. PAZ ha venido ha ser una ilusión en lugar de una realidad personal. Yo oro que esta Navidad todos vengamos a Jesus y CONOZCAMOS mejor el significado verdadero de PAZ.

Cool but comfortable weather conditions have been the norm following a very high windy mid-week. Some folks reported shingles begin lost, others lost trees and some even reported losing entire roofs, but things are nice and calm now. Greetings to all of you and thank you so much for reading this week.

Tip of the Week: Caring for a Live Christmas Tree

Last week I shared with you some information and tips on how to care for a fresh cut Christmas tree, and as promised last week here are a few tips on how to care for a living Christmas tree if you were fortunate enough to receive one or you just wanted to try a new experience for this year's holiday season.

Living trees are available in various sizes, from tabletop plants to full-size trees and can be found at local garden centers. Remember to set the living tree up in the house just before Christmas and then plant it outdoors immediately after removing the ornaments.

The longer a living tree of any kind is left inside, the weaker it will become and the harder it will be to establish in its new outdoor home. Once you bring your live Christmas tree indoors, place it in a draft free location away from heaters and vents. Buy your living Christmas tree as close to Christmas as possible, and plant as soon as possible afterwards.

The longer your tree stays inside, the more it's exposed to drying conditions that will weaken it. 7-10 days is about as long as you should keep your tree inside.

Most live Christmas trees come in a large pot and some come in a wrapped root ball in plastic or wet sphagnum moss. The root ball must stay damp the entire time the tree is in the house so be sure to check the moisture every other day.

The very best choices for living trees to be planted in the landscape after Christmas in Zavala county are Leyland cypress, Arizona cypress and Eldarica pine. The native cedar is available in many sizes and smells great in the house. When planted outside, it can take sun or shade. Pollen causing allergies will not be a problem on the small trees, but some people could possibly be allergic to the aromatic fragrance of the foliage so keep that in mind.

Once you remove the decorations from the tree it is time to plant it. Start by keeping the tree outside in a cold (cool for our area) and sheltered place. Keeping it in a cool place outside until you are ready to plant it will help with this. Now you are ready to replant your Christmas tree.

Choose an open, sunny planting spot. Research the type of tree you have and its growth potential. Make sure it won't outgrow the spot you choose for it. Look for a sunny spot that's several feet from your house or any fencing since roots and limbs could eventually cause problems for these structures.

Using a shovel, dig a hole twice as wide as the size of the root ball to give the roots a chance to spread. But don't go any deeper than the height of the root ball, since you don't want it too far below the soil level. Having it slightly higher than the soil around it will help with drainage. Remember don't dispose of any of the dirt you dig out of the hole. You'll be using this later to fill the hole back in.

Remove the burlap and any other coverings on the root ball. Place the Christmas tree in the hole and backfill the hole. Then cover the hole with several inches of mulch and water the tree.

Observe the tree for the rest of the winter season (Zavala County winter). If our winter conditions this year are dry, occasionally water the tree to keep moisture near the roots. Once the spring growing season begins, water the tree regularly if we aren't getting a lot of rain.

Finally remember that March can be rather windy in southwest Texas. If you have to tie the tree to the stakes using a flexible material like canvas straps. The stakes can be removed after about a year. If you are successful you can enjoy your live Christmas tree outdoors for years and generations to come.

Good luck and have a wonderful week. M.V.

Online Payment Services Are They a Good Fit for Your Small Business?

With online competition to “buy from your recliner” ads, how can a small business owner make an informed decision to accept online payments? It is very confusing and many times costly to embark on a new credit adventure. Please review details and the “fine print” before signing on the dotted line. Merchant services are usually available from your local banking institution, but as I frequently mention, always ask a financial professional before making a commitment. The Christmas Rush is in full swing and businesses should take every advantage to be competitive with the big guys.

By Caron Beesley, Contributor to the Small Business Administration Blog

Credit cards are a common online payment option for small businesses, but what about other services like PayPal, Bill Me Later and Google Wallet?

These now ubiquitous tools make it easier than ever for anyone – not just e-tailers – to buy and sell goods online and via mobile devices. However, as with all business tools, they have their pros and cons. Here’s what you need to know.

What Are Online Payment Services? Online payment services allow businesses to receive payment from any customer with an existing PayPal, Bill Me Later or Google Wallet account. As a seller, you set up a business or merchant account, follow a few steps to add code to your website – and off you go. Once you’re set up, customers’ payments can be directly deposited into your account. You can also issue invoices, swipe credit cards on mobile devices (with a special widget) and accept payments on the go.

Here’s a quick breakdown of how each service works:

PayPal – Still the world’s largest online payment option, PayPal offers numerous multi-channel options for business owners to accept payments. With a PayPal account, businesses can accept payments online without a merchant account, process major credit cards, scan checks via smart phones, and process payments via mobile devices by using a card swiper.

PayPal fees are 2.9 percent plus 30 cents per transaction (2.7 percent for PayPal Here mobile services), and a basic PayPal account is free to set up, with no monthly fee. You can lower the cost per transaction with volume discounts – the more you transact the less you pay. Funds are credited to your PayPal account as soon as payments are processed.

Additional value-add services are available for a fee (such as payment processing without the customer leaving your website).

Bill Me Later – Owned by PayPal, Bill Me Later offers instant credit to consumers for online purchases without using a credit card. Unlike PayPal, consumers aren’t required to set up an account in advance. Instead, a company called WebBank makes a real-time credit decision each time at the point of purchase. Here’s the crux for small businesses: Bill Me Later targets larger retailers with annual sales well into the millions. Read more in this article from MutliChannel Merchant: Alternative Payment Methods Gain Acceptance.

Google Wallet – Formerly Google Checkout, Google Wallet (like PayPal) serves both online and mobile payments. Registered Google Wallet users can pay for goods with their phone anywhere MasterCard PayPass is accepted. Customers can also make one-click online purchases on an enabled merchant website using credit card information stored in a secure cloud platform. Google hasn’t yet embarked on a targeted campaign for a share of the small business market and most merchants tend to be larger retailers and known brands.

Rates vary depending on your sales volume but can be as low as 1.9 percent plus 30 cents per transaction. Google is competitive too – there are no monthly, set-up or gateway fees. Google’s website doesn’t publicly state the cost of the in-store Mastercard-PayPass reader, so it’s not clear what upfront investment business owners can expect.

The Pros and Cons

You might well ask, “Why would I opt for an online payment service?” One of the biggest reasons is, quite simply, your customers are using these services. There are more than 100 million active PayPal accounts in the U.S. and the proliferation of secure online technology and mobile apps means wallet-less transactions are here to stay.

Other pros to these services are ease of use and low cost. Opening an online payment services account is often faster, easier and less expensive than setting up a merchant account for credit and debit card transactions.

Cons?

For customers, one of the biggest drawbacks of online payment processing sites like PayPal and Bill Me Later is that they often have to leave your website to complete a transaction (although you can pay an additional fee to avoid this). Many customers might be familiar with this experience, while others may find it confusing and abandon the purchase.

Customer service is also cited on the web as a frequent issue. If transactions are questioned, service providers can contractually lock your account and even withdraw funds from your account – leaving merchants waiting for days for their accounts to be reinstated. Not something any small business owner can afford to risk.

The Bottom Line: Offering online payment options can help increase online sales. However, don’t put all your eggs in one basket. Online payment services should be an option for you and your customers, but not the only option. Find the right balance of options – something that differs for every business. Do your research, understand your customer needs and demographics and test the market with low-cost, low-risk entry-level solutions like the Standard offering from PayPal or Google Wallet’s online payment processing service.

Cowboys’ playoff hopes still alive after 23-0 loss

By: Eliazar Cuellar

The Dallas Cowboys were on the receiving end of an ugly 23-0 loss on Sunday, at the hands of the Indianapolis Colts. The Cowboys were riding a five-game win streak, but unfortunately, it was snapped in humiliating fashion. Following the defeat, the Cowboys now have a record of 8-6 on the season, still good enough for first place in the NFC East, a nice silver lining.

Against the Colts, the Cowboys did not resemble a team on the verge of clinching a playoff berth. Over the past two weeks the Cowboys had been making headlines throughout the country for their vaunted defense. They faced Drew Brees and the New Orleans Saints at home and were able to bottle up their high-powered offense for a mere 176 yards. After stopping the Saints at home, the Cowboys carried their momentum on the road to Philadelphia. The team’s proud defense was not able to replicate the same success against the Eagles. They allowed 276 yards and 23 unanswered points in the second half of that game. The good news was that they still managed to pull out a 29-23 win thanks to a thrilling score from wide receiver Amari Cooper in overtime.

The Cowboys have had a string of impressive victories, but against the Colts they looked like a completely different football team. Following the loss, running back Ezekiel Elliott expressed his frustrations to the media, “You look at the team you saw the past five weeks. Look at the team today, I think it’s two totally different groups of men.... That’s not who we are.” Elliott’s sentiment rings true, Sunday’s game was a strange one. It wasn’t going to be an easy matchup, after all, the Cowboys were considered to be road underdogs heading into Lucas Oil Stadium. The loss wasn’t surprising, but the manner in which they did was certainly unexpected.

Even though the Cowboys’ win streak came to an end, the team’s chances of making the playoffs still stand at 94 percent following the Eagles’ win on Sunday Night Football. The team is still in good standing, but they will need to think long and hard about what went wrong against the Colts. They might start by looking at the defensive side of the ball. In the 2018 season the Cowboys had only allowed one player to rush for over 100 yards in a game. That was none other than Seattle Seahawks running back Chris Carson back in Week 3. Rookie Marlon Mack managed to run all over the Cowboys defense to the tune of 139 yards on Sunday.

The sky is not falling for the Cowboys after being shutout for the first time since 2003. They are going to need their offense to play better in order to become a true contender, but there is still two game left in the season to right the wrongs. They only need to win one more game in order to become champions of the NFC East division. Their next two opponents are going to be the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and then the New York Giants in the season finale. Both teams feature struggling defenses and have a combined win loss record of 10-19. For now, it looks like the Cowboys are a safe bet to make the playoffs. The Cowboys loss on Sunday was a humbling experience, how they bounce back against the Buccaneers will speak volumes about the team’s Super Bowl aspirations.

Highest Ranking Graduate Earns Avalos Teaching Scholarship

By Laura Nelson

How does someone transition from not caring about attending college to graduating from Sul Ross State University in Del Rio with a bachelor's degree with the highest academic honor that can be earned?

Ask Cindy Johnson. When she graduated from Del Rio High School, she knew what she wanted and it wasn't college. She does not remember anyone encouraging her to go to college, but she does admit that if someone did, she was not listening. She made a different choice and it wasn't too long before she was a single mom, working long, hard hours for minimum wage, and she said, "I wasn't making it." Cindy decided to earn a bachelor's degree in order to provide a better life for her son, Louis Ibarra III. After finishing the first two years at Southwest Texas Junior College, she transferred to SRSU in Del Rio and completed her Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies after starting at SWTJC only four years earlier.

The honors student first chose teaching because it meant she could spend more time with her son, but it soon turned into a calling. While completing her degree, she worked as a substitute teacher and was both moved and inspired by her students. She feels she can motivate students to achieve and also provide them with clear expectations, such as encouraging them to attend college.

Cindy recently met Enrique Avalos and his son, Enrique Jr. to thank them for the Esmeralda Rosalia Avalos Teacher Education Scholarship she received. As she told her story, Enrique Sr. said, "That's what it's all about," referring to helping students in need and watching them succeed. The scholarship is given every year in memory of his daughter who aspired to be a teacher, but health concerns meant it was not to be. Esme passed away and the family started the teaching scholarship in her memory. Fund raising was so successful that the family also gives a nursing scholarship.

Ms. Johnson has earned summa cum laude honors, which means her grade point average is between 3.90 and 4.0, and as the highest ranking graduate, she will lead the Pledge of Allegiance at commencement. Her parents, Rudy, originally from Eagle Pass, mother Cynthia, and son will be there to celebrate as will her brother Rudy, Jr., who is making a special trip from Japan where he is deployed in the U.S. Navy. Members of the Avalos family also plan to attend.

The SRSU commencement ceremony for the Del Rio, Eagle Pass, and Uvalde campuses will be held Sat., Dec. 15, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the John Harrell Auditorium at Uvalde High School.

La Pryor, Knippa win titles in 59th annual high school tournament

Uvalde, TX, December 12, 2018 - The La Pryor Bulldogs and Knippa Lady Crushers are the 2018 champions of the 59th Annual SWTJC High School Invitational Basketball Tournament following finals action on Saturday, Dec. 1 in Uvalde.

La Pryor beat D'Hanis 59-28, while the Knippa Lady Crushers downed the Leakey Lady Eagles, 39-36 to claim the girl's title.

La Pryor's win marks the second time the Bulldogs have been crowned champions of the college tournament since it began in 1961.

For the Lady Crushers, this is their sixth championship title during the 59 years of the tournament.

La Pryor junior Juan Valdez was the tournament most valuable player for the boys, while Knippa senior Rebekah Ramirez was the girl's MVP.

In other boy's games Saturday (Dec.1), Knippa went on to claim third place in the tournament with a 69-33 victory over the Brackett Tigers late Saturday afternoon, while the Sabinal Yellowjackets won the consolation title with their 63-48 win over the Neuces Canyon Panthers.

Other girl's division games on Saturday (Dec. 1) saw the La Pryor Lady Bulldogs beat the Brackett Tigerettes, 57-7., while Neuces Canyon beat the Sabinal Lady Jackets, 49-28, to win the consolation title.

Part 5: All Shall Be Taught By God (John 6:45)

By Celestino Luna

As I said in part 4's article of "All Shall Be Taught by God (part 4)" (John 6:45) that I would write in this article the fifteen things the Holy Spirit told me as I departed from Cedar Park, Texas to downtown Austin, a seventeen minute ride. Of course I was alone on my way to Crystal City, TX. Jesus told us that we should seek a place (solitary) and pray to God our Father. But also He tells us in Revelation 2:7, 11, 17, 29 and 3:6, 12, 22 that "he who has an ear, hear what the Spirit says to the churches". In John 14:26 Jesus said "But the Comforter (Helper) which is the Holy Spirit whom the Father will send in My Name, He shall teach you all things and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you". "How shall we be taught"? Paul the Apostle gives us the answer in 1 Corinthians 2:12-14 "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world (but the spirit, worldly) but the Spirit which is of God that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God, which things we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teaches but which the Holy Spirit teaches comparing spiritual things with spiritual". God speaks to us with spiritual thoughts and spiritual words which are according to the Scriptures, that is how we know if it is the Spirit.

That is why Jesus said we must be born of the Spirit otherwise 1 Corinthians is a truth for verse 14 says "But the natural man receives not the things of the Spirit of God for they are foolishness unto him, neither can he know them (truth's) because they are spiritually discerned".

To be taught you must be anointed by the Holy Spirit. 1 John 2:27 says "But the anointing that you received from the Spirit which is in you, you have no need that nobody teaches you but as the anointing teaches you all things and is real and is not a lie, just as He has taught you remain in the Spirit".

How many faiths do you have besides Jesus? Ephesians 4:4-6 says "there is one church (the Body of Christ), One Spirit, One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism, One God, One Father of all who is over all and for all and in all".

John 15:26-27 clearly says that the Holy Spirit will give testimony of Jesus and we shall also give testimony of Jesus. Paul the Apostle tells the Greeks in Athens that you are very religious for they worshipped idols (Acts 17:22). But what does the Spirit say? 1 Corinthians 1:9 tells us "that we were called to have fellowship with His Son Jesus Christ our Lord and Savior". If we have more than one faith do not expect the Spirit to have fellowship with you until you confess Jesus Christ as your One and Only Savior. As I travel by myself I take a tablet and pen so I might write what the Spirit tells me and then I search the Scriptures to prove that it is the Spirit.

I never ask for offerings but across the border I preach and teach at two churches. I am talking about 50 children who come with parents on Sundays. In their behalf I ask that if you have any good used toys to give away, call me at (830) 213-3026 or leave them at the front door of 1220 E. Valverde S. in Crystal City. My next trips are December 12, 2018 and December 19, 2018. Thank you.

Hurd on the Hill: The Spirit of the Season

We work better when we work together

There is a spirit of joy and giving in the air this time of year that goes unmatched, no matter the occasion celebrated. From getting together with family and loved ones to giving back to those in need, the holidays bring out the best in each of us and our nation as a whole. As this season continues, I encourage everyone to take time to reflect on this spirit of the season and carry a perspective of kindness, civility and cooperation into the New Year.

We live in a nation more divided than ever. And although bringing up politics is typically frowned upon at a family gathering, my fear is that we are unable to put our labels of Democrat or Republican aside and work for the common good of our communities. One of the founding principles of our nation is the freedom of speech, or put alternatively, the ability to disagree. Through civil discourse and competition of ideas, we have created a democracy that has allowed Americans to prosper. We must come together as a nation and show the world our ability to disagree civilly, and that more unites us than divides us. For this 'experiment called America' to continue to thrive, we must be able to disagree with one another, without being disagreeable.

One of the things I consistently hear when I'm back home crisscrossing South and West Texas is that folks fear our country is on the wrong track. I understand why you all feel this way - I often feel the same after seeing pointless partisan bickering in Congress. However, what I have seen during my time in Congress is that bipartisanship is a real thing, and it is the only way to ensure that everyone's voices are heard.

For example, last week alone, Congress saw three major bipartisan wins that deliver real results back home, from saving your hard-earned taxpayer dollars and keeping you safe to providing certainty for TX-23's more than 9,000 working farms and ranches. On Wednesday, I held my final hearing as Chair of the IT Subcommittee in the House, which oversees how our federal government is storing and protecting your information online. Due to bipartisan technology policies that my committee members and I have advocated for, the federal government saved over $714 million in taxpayer dollars this year alone to streamline their IT systems and keep your data safe from hackers. Although my time as Chair has come to an end, I assure you that I will continue to work with my friends on both sides of the political aisle to make sure our government is more efficient and transparent for the American people.

My bipartisan DHS Data Framework Act has also officially been sent to the President's desk, becoming my thirteenth piece of legislation since 2015 to be signed into law. In today's interconnected world, it is imperative that our law enforcement agencies can get the right information to the right people at the right time, so we can keep terrorists on the run and off our shores. This bipartisan bill provides the tools to make this happen, allowing the Department of Homeland Security to quickly and safely share information with other law enforcement agencies without compromising our nation's secrets. I'm glad that my colleagues and I could get this bipartisan initiative to keep Americans safe across the finish line.

Last but certainly not least, the Agriculture and Nutrition Act of 2018, commonly known as the Farm Bill, is also headed to the President's desk to become the law of the land for the next five years, providing TX-23's hardworking farmers and ranchers with strong agricultural policy that provides them with certainty and stability they need to put the clothes on our backs and the food on our tables. I was proud to support this bipartisan legislation and will continue to fight for the 3.75 million Texans employed by the agricultural sector.

The fact of the matter is clear and simple: we work better when we work together. I am excited to head home to Texas after these major bipartisan wins, and I hope that my colleagues also understand that the only way we can continue to get things done is by working together. If we want our nation to be better, each of us needs to be better. That's why in Congress I will continue to work with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to advocate for each of you, whether you voted for me or not, because it's my job as Representative to find solutions

W.A. Butler, county chairman for the RFC work, says the work in the county will be temporarily suspended. The work of keeping the new set of records required has become so complicated no one seems to be able to comprehend them. Other counties are having the same trouble and the work is being halted until there is a better understanding.

A meeting of those interested in the Zavala-Dimmit Counties Irrigation District No. 1 has been called for the purpose of discussing the completion of the spillway at the Boynton Dam, and other matters.

The Carrizo Springs strawberry crop began moving last week, four weeks late because of the freeze. The prices began at about $3.50 a crate, dropping to $2 a crate by Monday.

Winners of the typing contest at the Zavala County Inter-scholastic Meet held March 24 were Ruby Englert and Senovia Sandoval of Crystal City; Gladys Stuart and Andrew Jones, Batesville. En Memoria

Hoy me desperate pensando en ti hace ya veinte y seis anos que te fuiste sin decir adios

Te extranamos, te recordamos Tantas cosas han pasado que te hubiese encantado compartir pues fuiste y seras "familia"

Que triste ha sido no encontrar la respusta, la solucion
El porque Y quienes
Tu alegre vid ate arrebataron

La justicia viene como un misterio tal como llego tu muerte aquellos culpables creemelo uno por uno pagaran

Ellos saben que hicieron mal
sus consciensas dia a dia
Los dominan sus vidas
y caerse a pedazos les llegara

Tu madre sufrio la agonía
cuando esos malditos
Tu vida cortaron
Pruebas hubo muchas
pero tambien cubrimiento

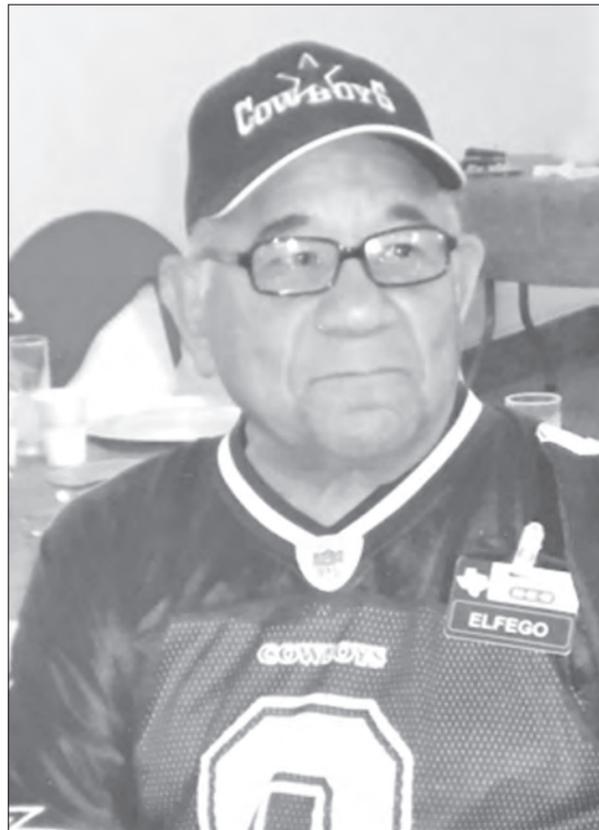

Dinero da de que hablar
y favores se combran pero
al fin alla ellos
Y un dia cuando sean llamados a la precencia de Dios
a ver que cara pondran.

In Loving Memory of Elfego Martinez

December 25, 1933

What I would give to hold your hand, your smiling face to see;
to hear your voice and hear that laugh that meant so much to me.

We miss you every day Dad,
this Christmas even more.
Your first birthday without you, we'll celebrate it like before.

Instead of countless tears,
for the blue star you'll hear cheers.
Tradition is we gather here,
for a game, a boxing match or two.
This time our hearts half empty, because we'll be missing you.

But as we stare at you vacant chair,
our hearts will know you're there.
The love, the voice, the smile we'll recall, means you'll never really leave us after all.

Dear Santa,
This year I want a lot of presents. What I want for Christmas is slime, nail polish, and a iPhone. The reason why I should get presents is because I have been cleaning my room, holding the door for other people. If you want you can get me what ever, it's up to you. Hope you are having fun at the North Pole.

Dear Santa, I deserve a lot of toy because my grades are good. Plus I'm good at school. My favorite toy is a PS4 pro because it never lags.
I also would like a Nintendo switch cause it's a fun game that I like.
